

Apostle Cardale's Position within the College of Apostles

In a letter to the editor, published in the Daily Express of 24 July 1877, a strange anecdote was circulated. William Grant, who had left the Catholic Apostolic Church in anger after he had belonged to it for five years, had heard it and retold it in that letter: The apostles have assembled in council. Apostle Cardale has submitted a proposal, but his fellow apostles argue against it. He arises, takes his hat and says: "Well, gentlemen, I leave you; when you see your way to assent to my proposition you may send for me."<sup>1</sup>

Six days before this letter appeared, Apostle John Bate Cardale had died. William Grant was that the deceased leader had ex-
gst members of the church. "Chief
might equate this with the present
ot equate Apostle Cardale's posi-

Apostle Cardale's Position within the College of Apostles

Zurich. In the German edition of our church periodical "Our Family" of 20 January 2008 an article was published entitled "Apostle Cardale's Position within the College of Apostles". In it, the authors show that this apostle held a special position among his fellow apostles, being the first-called and "pillar" of the apostles.

Here we publish an annotated English version of that article.

14 February 2008

Apostle Cardale's Position within the College of Apostles

In a letter to the editor, published in the Daily Express of 24 July 1877, a strange anecdote was circulated. William Grant, who had left the Catholic Apostolic Church in anger after he had belonged to it for five years, had heard it and retold it in that letter: The apostles have assembled in council. Apostle Cardale has submitted a proposal, but his fellow apostles argue against it. He arises, takes his hat and says: "Well, gentlemen, I leave you; when you see your way to assent to my proposition you may send for me."<sup>1</sup>

Six days before this letter appeared, Apostle John Bate Cardale had died. William Grant was that the deceased leader had ex-
gst members of the church. "Chief
might equate this with the present
ot equate Apostle Cardale's posi-

<sup>1</sup>The first of the apostles in that Council was the "Pillar of Apostles". Among the apostles, the first-called and pastor, he, there was such a "Pillar" of early history. He is the first-called the first of the order of apostles in history, he received the highest apostleship and was handed them on to the fellow apostles. In addition, he teaches other apostles, how to preach, how to baptize, how to conduct the evangelistic mission and how to be a pastor. The apostles receive his oral apostleship of apostleship through him.

<sup>2</sup>Only when sitting in a circle, could the apostles arrive at binding decisions. When the apostles met in council, there were no votes, in a free way, they found out what the majority thought, the majority was required to be agreed on it. In the New Testament, the apostles were not in a circle, but in a council. In the New Testament, the apostles were not in a circle, but in a council. In the New Testament, the apostles were not in a circle, but in a council.

The anecdote related about by William Grant of Cardale leaving the apostles' council, remaining not to return before the other apostles had accepted his position, does not seem convincing to us. We have here these parts of the correspondence that are available that Cardale was ready to fight to his conclusion, but there is plenty of evidence that he was