A new website for NAC Canada

Waterloo. The New Apostolic Church Canada has a new website. A completely new and very fresh-looking layout greets visitors with a friendly "Welcome." Changes include separate domains for new and registered visitors. An option to click to the French version makes the positive new image complete.

The News category gives readers a choice between national and international current events. The Church Locator provides addresses for New Apostolic congregations throughout all of Canada's provinces. Another completely new feature is a protected intranet for ministers and other responsible individuals, which requires them to enter a special login.

In his letter to the congregations, District Apostle Leslie Latorcai adds his hope, that the users will find the new website interesting and a great place to visit. He writes: "There are new features available on this site facilitating communication throughout the nation – both to our members and to contacts in our surrounding communities. Each congregation is provided with a homepage with announcements promoting upcoming events and highlighting changes to regularly scheduled services."
