

Dortmund. As of today the long-planned technical overhaul of the website of the New Apostolic Church North Rhine-Westphalia has been completed. While the contents have mostly remained the same, there have been some refinements in the information offered, as well as some subtle design changes.

The header has become more slender, and will in the near future also be used on the websites of the NAC in Portugal and Lithuania, substituting the geographical outline of these two countries for that of the German region featured here. Thus it will be possible to distinguish the sites from one another while at the same time maintaining a high level of recognition.

The right column is also new, and features an interface to information from neighbouring District Churches, NAC International, or other websites under the heading "Brief notes." Information processing speed has been increased through the database-supported content management system (CMS) making editorial time more reasonable.

A warm welcome to the new website of the NAC North Rhine-Westphalia.

5 October 2006