

New Apostolic Church
International

The New Apostolic Church in

Russia has a new website

Home > Church > Bulletin board > The New Apostolic Church in Russia has a new website

Moscow/Berlin. As of 1 August 2009, the New Apostolic Church Russia has been showcasing itself with a new online presence. It is now possible for visitors to find all current reports from the districts and congregations of Russia at www.novoapost.ru. The website also gives insight into the structure of the Church, both in Russia and around the world, and provides information about the New Apostolic faith, with emphasis on the creed and the sacraments.

“I am happy that we will now also be able to provide current news and reports to our brethren throughout Russia in this manner,” declared District Apostle Wolfgang Nadolny—who is responsible for the Church district of Russia—at the start of the new online initiative.

The previous website of the NAC Russia went online in 2003. It provided a more general overview of our Church and faith.

» Website of the NAC Russia

3 August 2009