

New position to be filled at NACI

New Apostolic Church International

The New Apostolic Church International (NACI) is the umbrella organisation of the New Apostolic Church. It numbers some nine million members in nearly 200 countries around the world. At its headquarters in Zurich, a small, interdisciplinary team manages global activities and provides comprehensive support to the Church leader.

In the scope of our future planning and realignment, we are looking for candidates to fill the following position, effective immediately:

Editor (100%)

Your duties:

- After appropriate training, the focus of your work will be to lead the 'Divine Service Guide Work Group' and take responsibility for its results.
- In close collaboration with the authors (Apostles) and the publisher (Chief Apostle), you will be responsible for developing the Divine Service Guide, which forms the basis of the sermons conducted around the world. The group's other products include the regularly published Special Editions of the Divine Service Guide and the Liturgy book.
- You will organise and preside over global authors' workshops and ensure the quality of their content, as well as the content's consistency with our teaching.

Your profile:

- Completed studies in the humanities or social sciences with several years of experience
- Experience in scholarly work, knowledge transfer, and writing skills
- Very good knowledge of spoken and written German and English—knowledge of French and Spanish is an advantage
- Experience with international and cultural diversity
- Good knowledge of the New Apostolic Catechism as well as rudimentary theological knowledge
- Previous preaching experience is an advantage
- Strong communication skills and organisational skills

We are offering you a challenging and diverse opportunity to work within an exciting, international environment. You will report to the head of staff and work directly with the Chief Apostle.

Please send your detailed application documents with details of the earliest starting date including your salary expectations by e-mail or post to:

New Apostolic Church International
Simon Heinger
Lieberlandsstrasse 243 CH-8051 Zurich
heinger@naci.org
www.naci.org

We look forward to receiving your application:

The New Apostolic Church International is creating an editorial position as part of its forward planning and realignment.

The main focus of the post advertised is the management of the Divine Service Guide Working Group. The advert is aimed specifically at academics from the humanities or social sciences with strong writing and editing skills.

Due to the international nature of the work, relevant experience and multilingualism are also required.

2 février 2024

 Editor Work Group Divine Service Guide 228.85kb